

Non-Discrimination Policy

The Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders and the UNCG Speech and Hearing Center comply with applicable Federal civil rights laws and does not tolerate discrimination against anyone in our UNC Greensboro community (students, patients, caregivers, faculty, and/or staff) on the basis of race, ethnicity, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin (ancestry), disability, culture, language, dialect, marital status, or military status. We will not support any actions that could undermine learning, workplace safety, or patient care. We cannot support any action that results in undue stress, emotional trauma, or harm in any way. Failure to abide by this policy may subject the violator to disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.

If you feel you have been treated unfairly, please visit: https://policy.uncg.edu/university_policies/discriminatory-conduct/